

PAKEEZA KANWAL VS ZAM ZAM LABORATORY

Present: Nemo.

The instant complaint was received through post and 28-03-2018 was fixed for preliminary arguments but no one appeared on behalf of the complainant and matter was adjourned for 18-04-2018. On that day father of the complainant appeared and sought time to produce the memo he was further directed to annexed the affidavit of complainant in support of his claim and the matter was adjourned for 09-05-2018 and that that day no one appeared on behalf of the complainant.

I have myself perused the contents of complaint and straight way observed that although the complainant is an yet advocate yet she has failed to present the complaint in proper format as required under R13 of Punjab Consumer Protection Rules, 2009. The complaint has been filed in contravention of the mandatory provision of The Act and Rule which is not maintainable in present form.

Even otherwise the petitioner on previous date of hearing has not appeared before the Court and in the interest of justice the matter was adjourned for today. Today again different calls were made on different intervals but neither the petitioner nor on his behalf any authorized agent has appeared to pursue the matter. Therefore due to the reason mentioned above and due to non appearance and due to non prosecution the instant complaint is hereby dismissed.

Announced: 23-05-2018
